First introduced in 2006, Container Freight Rate Insight is an indispensable online reference for importers, exporters, freight forwarders and other stakeholders requiring up-to-date, independently researched ocean freight rates and freight cost benchmarks

Alongside our World Container Index, the service provides a popular and robust reference for index-linked contracts, which can help you expand your business or make your contracts more responsive to market changes.

(Drewry can help you set-up index-linked mechanisms/contracts)

Verified, like-for-like rates

- Container Freight Rate Insight provided verified, like-for-like spot freight rate benchmarks drawing on a stable panel of buyers (~30 freight forwarders and NVOCCs) who provide Drewry with their 'buy rates' and market data which we use to calculate monthly and weekly average spot rates, ensuring continuity and comparability of data

1 For shippers/BCOs

- Service provides rates that are actually being paid by other companies on the route(s) that interest you. While Drewry cannot disclose specific company information for confidentiality reasons, the aggregated pricing information provides a benchmark against which you can test the success of your freight rate negotiations. It also provides informed analysis and a view on the short-term outlook for freight rates.

2 For Freight forwarders

- Access to the service will help in your rate negotiations with clients by providing independent evidence of changes (increases or decreases) in market rates.
- Giving transparency to mid-market spot market levels
- Showing freight rate market trends to customers
- Indexing contracts on a back-to-back basis with carriers and shippers
- Authentic independent evidence with Drewry's name and reputation

3 For Carriers

- The Container Freight Rate Insight enables you to benchmark your average rates on specific port pairs against the latest forwarder market buy rates. These cover business with multiple carriers and are indicative of average market rates. The benchmarks will also provide market intelligence for studies on new routes or ports.
